5. Study Overview

This research study is being conducted to document and describe languages of the world.

We are inviting you to participate in the research study because you are a speaker or signer of

If you agree to be in this study, you will be asked to do one or more of the following:

1. answer questions about your language and how you use it, including how to express words or signs, sentences or concepts in your language
2. tell a story or other form of performance (poetry, riddle, song) in your language, have a conversation in your language with other speaker(s) or signer(s), or allow the researchers to record you using your language in a natural setting in your community
3. read a list of words or sentences or describe pictures or videos in your language.

Breaks are given at any point you wish.

This form explains the research so that you may make an informed decision about participating.

- Research is voluntary - whether or not you participate is your decision. You can discuss your decision with others.
- You can say yes, but change your mind later.
- If you say no, we will not hold your decision against you.
- Please ask the study team questions about anything that is not clear, and feel free to ask questions and mention concerns before, during, and after the research.
- You will be given a copy of this consent form and the Participant's Bill of Rights.

CONSENT TO PARTICIPATE IN RESEARCH

We cannot promise any benefit to you or to others from you participating in this research. However, possible benefits include a greater knowledge of the use and structure of your language.

The alternative to being in this study is not to participate.

6. Whom can I talk to if I have questions?

If during your participation in the study you have questions or concerns, contact the research team at the numbers listed in Section 3 on the first page of this form.

If before or during your participation in the study you have questions about your rights as a research participant, or you want to talk to someone outside the research team, please contact:

- UC San Diego Office of IRB Administration at 858-246-4777 or irb@ucsd.edu

7. How many people will take part?

The number of people who will take part in the research is not predetermined.

8. What are the risks and possible discomforts?

The most common risks or discomforts of this study are boredom and fatigue. Participants may request a break at any point. There are no known serious risks.

9. How will information about me be protected?

It is customary practice in language documentation research to publicly acknowledge those who participate in any output resulting from the research. You will be given the opportunity at the end of this consent form to allow the researcher to acknowledge your participation.

In case you decide not to have your name publicly acknowledged, while we cannot guarantee complete confidentiality, we will limit access to information about you. Only people who have a need to review your information or documents will have access. These people include members of the research team and other staff or representatives of UCSD whose work is related to the research or to protecting your rights.

Study information will be labeled with a code instead of your name or other information that can easily identify you. The record linking your identifying information and the code will be kept separate from the rest of the study information.

The results of this study may be published once the study is completed. However, we will keep your name and other identifying information confidential.

10. Will I need to pay to participate in the research?

There is no cost to you to participate in the research.

13. Study Activities

Audio and video recordings provide reliable long term documentation of languages as they are spoken or signed at a given time. These recordings can be archived for future use by community members and researchers.

_____ If this item is checked, we may audio-record you. You can request at any point that the recording be stopped or any portion of it be erased, at any time and for any reason. You will also be given a copy of the audio recordings upon request. Audio recordings will be used for research purposes only in ways that you agree to below. You have the right not to agree to be audio-recorded.

_____ If this item is checked, we may video-record you. You can request at any point that the recording be stopped or any portion of it be erased, at any time and for any reason. You will also be given a copy of the video recordings upon request. Video recordings will be used for research purposes only in ways that you agree to below. You have the right not to agree to be video-recorded.

If you agree to be audio or video-recorded, please indicate below the uses of recordings to which you are willing to consent. This is completely voluntary and up to you.

1. The recordings can be studied by the research team for use in the research project. _____
2. The recordings can be publicly archived online for long-term preservation _____
3. The recordings can be used for scientific publications. _____
4. The recordings can be reviewed at meetings of scientists interested in the study of language. _____
5. The recordings can be reviewed in classrooms with students. _____
6. _____
7. The recordings can be reviewed in public presentations to non-scientific groups. _____
8. The recording can be used on television and/or radio. _____

You have the right to request that the recording be stopped, edited, or erased in full or in part at any time. You also have the right to request that uses of any individual recording be restricted.

Experimental Participant's Bill of Rights

Every individual asked to participate in a research study has the right to be:

1. Informed about the nature and purpose of the study.
2. Provided an explanation of the procedures to be followed in the research study.
3. Given a description of any side effects, discomforts, or risks that you can reasonably expect to occur during the study.
4. Informed about any benefits that would reasonably be expected from the participation in the study, if applicable.
5. Provided an opportunity to ask any questions concerning the research study both before agreeing to participate and at any time during the course of the study.
6. Informed that individuals can refuse to participate in the research study. Participation is voluntary. Research participants may refuse to answer any question or discontinue their involvement at any time without penalty or loss of benefits to which they might otherwise be entitled. Their decision will not affect their right to receive the care they would receive if they were not in the experiment.
7. Provided a copy of this form.
8. Given the opportunity to freely decide whether or not to consent to the research study without any force, coercion, or undue influence.

If you have any concerns or questions regarding the research study contact the researchers listed at the top of the consent form.

If you are unable to reach a member of the research team and have general questions, or you have concerns or complaints about the research study, research team, or questions about your rights as a research participant, please contact:
